BOMB TRAIN ON RAILROAD NEAR LAMBERTVILLE, N. J.

Terrific Blast of Dynamite
Damages Cab and Baggage Car

HUGE ROCK ON TRACK

Attempt Also Made to Open
Switchbox to Divert
Trains

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 5.—(INS)— Desperadoes with all the daring of Western bandits bombed a Pennsylvania Railroad train on the Trenton-Stroudsburg branch and subsequently made two attempts to derail other
trains passing over the same lines
during the night, Pennsylvania officials revealed today. Robbery was believed to have been their motives.

The first train, an express loaded
with passengers, was sent teetering
by a terrific blast of dynamite as it was crossing the trestle between Stockton and Lambertville, N. J. Fortunately it did not leave the rails. The cab and baggage car were damaged.

Two hours later a large stone was found lying across the tracks half a mile from the scene. It was sufficiently large to have caused the derailling of a train, if it had not been discovered
officials said.

Soon thereafter a quarter of a mile away track inspectors, now thoroughly aroused, found an attempt had been made to batter open a switchbox and
divert onrushing trains on to a siding.
There they would have smashed into several freight cars. Although a heavy crowbar apparently had been used, the switchbox withstood the battering.

The first attempt to wreck a train
took place early in the evening. It was made to the crack Stroudsburg-Philadelphia express which was shaken
by a terrific blast high above the
chasm bridged by the Praisville trestle.
For a moment the engine and baggage car swayed dizzily, but regained
their equilibrium and settled fast to the rails again. Bringing the train to a sudden halt, the engineer jumped
from the cab to see what had happened. He found the track intact and an unexploded stick of dynamite lying
a short distance away.

A hurry call brought railroad detectives and State police to the scene.
A hurried search failed to reveal any trace of the supposed bandits. A thorough examination of the tracks led to the discovery of the other two attempts to derail the trains. The stone was placed on the tracks about two hours afterwards for while some of the inspectors had passed over the spot
without finding anything wrong another
group a short time later discovered it.

Both police and railway officials expressed amazement at the daring of the plotters. There was no doubt that deliberate attempts had been made to wreck the trains, officials said, although they could advance no reasons
for the attempts beyond the robbery theory. None of the trains carried any valuable cargoes, so far as known, and
neither were there any important mail
or express shipments.

HULMEVILLE

Hulmeville Borough Council conducted its March business session this week in the council chamber on Trenton avenue. There were two absentees.
Burgess Samuel J. Illick presided in the absence of President
Thomas B. Longhurst. Reports of various committees were included in the
miscellaneous business.

At the weekly meeting of Hulmeville
Boy Scout Troop in the M. E. Church
basement last evening, Elwood King,
who has been affiliated with the cub
pack, was received into membership.

The Epworth League of Neshaminy
M. E. Church will hold its monthly meeting in the church on Monday night at 8 o'clock. Business, a social time, and refreshments, will keep the
members occupied during the evening.

Mrs. Francis E. Walz and infant
daughter, Carolyn Eva, have left Dr.
J. Fred Wagner's private hospital,
Bristol, and are now at their home
here.

WHAT SHALL I GIVE THEM TO EAT?

THREE meals a day—365 days in a year—what a lot of meals
to plan—to cook—to serve!

And that isn't all of it. You have to buy food for those meals.
Meat. Groceries. Vegetables. Fruits.

A big job! Not only does it take careful buying to keep within your food budget, but ingenuity to vary your menus so that they are nourishing, yet free from monotony.

However, you can simplify this feeding job by reading the advertisements that feature food products. In these times, food advertisements are most complete in information regarding the price of the product, its quality, its health value and its uses. Often the reading of the one advertisement can furnish you with ideas—not only for dinner tonight, but for your breakfast tomorrow, and luncheon the day after.

How often you say, "What shall I give them to eat?" Read the advertisements and you'll find the answer.

Attorney Kilcoyne Named As Head of Elks' Lodge

At the regular meeting of Bristol
Lodge of Elks, No. 976, B. P. O. E., held in the lodge room Monday night, officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year. Previous to the meeting officers were hosts to District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler R. E. Culbertson,
of York, Pa., at a banquet. Mr. Culber-
son made his visit an official one and spoke at the meeting.

The officers elected last night will
be inducted to their new stations at the April meeting. The newly-elected men-
bers are: Exalted ruler, J. Leslie Kilcoyne;
esteemed leading knight, Chauncey Stoneback, Jr.; esteemed loyal knight,
Jacob Schmidt, Jr.; esteemed lecturing knight, Mulford L. Callahan; secretary, Howard R. Thornton; treasurer,
John M. Wright.

Clifford L. Anderson was elected as a trustee; tiler, George W. Buckley;
representative to Grand Lodge, John
S. Williams; alternate representative to Grand Lodge, Fred Kenyon; delegates to State convention, John Wright, Francis J. Byers, John H.
Wichser; alternate delegates to State convention, J. C. Schmidt, Jr., Stacy
Brown and Fred Kenyon.

The newly-elected exalted ruler,
John Leslie Kilcoyne, is assistant district attorney of Bucks County, and is a well-known lawyer.

DESTRUCTION IN PATH OF STORM ON SEABOARD

Towns and Resorts from New Jersey to Maine Report
Heavy Losses

WIND DELAYING LINERS

NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—(INS)—Atlantic
seaboard towns and resorts from New Jersey to Maine today marked a trail of destruction reaped by heavy wind and sea storms. Enormous damage was done.

The most serious havoc in the New York district was at East Hampton,
Long Island, where a pounding sea
tore at the beach. Six homes, including that of Ring Lardner, the author,
were damaged.

A high tide at New York harbor
caused delayed ferryboat service and
six persons were injured when one ferry crashed against guide plates in Brooklyn.

Ocean liners were delayed in reaching the harbor and several boats due
yesterday will not dock until today.
The Italian tanker Alabama reported
herself drifting 400 miles off Chesapeake Bay with a broken steering gear. The vessel radioed it was in no immediate danger.

Along the New Jersey coast, streets
were flooded in Atlantic City, Margate
and other resorts and piers were damaged.

The highest tide in 22 years brought extensive damage along the New England coast line. Ferry service in Boston Harbor was suspended when approaches were flooded with water.
Streets in Winthrop, Mass., were under water and property at White Island, and Hampton Beach, N. H., and resorts near Boston were damaged.

Play at Edgely Church Attracts Large Audience

The participants of this pleasing
stage-piece were: Mrs. Waverly, Martha Prall; Madge Miller, Doris
Wright; Hal, Francis Wilson; Sidney,
Joseph Dick; May, Edith Lodge; Marjorie, Pearl Stanley; Sam, Edward Ef-
finger; Paula, Janice Baines; Jean, Harriet Dewsnap; Bob, Mike Pow-
lowicz; John, Joseph Coyle; Mary
Smith, Dorothy McSherry; the second
Mary Smith, Mildred Faber; Mrs.
Wood, Bessie Dougherty.

NEWPORTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler and son Warren, and Eric Sheffer and son Milton,
of Philadelphia, visited Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Everett, on Friday.

The Newportville Boy Scout troop
committee expect to take the Buc-con week-end training course held at the camp on March 7th and 8th.

BRILLIANT HUES OF THE PAINTED DESERT AND GLISTENING SHADES IN THE PETRIFIED FORESTS PROVE ATTRACTIVE TO TRAVELERS FROM BRISTOL

Frank Pfeifer, Chauncey Stoneback, Sr., and Son Return
After Month's Automobile Tour—Visited in Los Angeles for 16 Days, Enjoying Side Trips

The trio of Bristol travelers have returned. On Tuesday did Messrs. Frank Pfeifer, Chauncey Stoneback, Sr., and Chauncey Stoneback, Jr., arrive in Bristol, with pieces of petrified trees
from the Rainbow Natural Forest in Arizona, brilliant hues sand from the Painted Desert, and other mementoes
of pleasing spots in the Western states.

The group, accompanied by Charles Gronzweig, of Moore, Pa., made the month's jaunt in the Stonebacks' automobile, and a most enjoyable tour it proved to be, state the quartet.

Logs of petrified forest are found
over an area more than 100 square miles. These fallen monarchs, which have become as they are only after
thousands of years of action by nature,
present the most brilliant hues, the
dazzling beauties being of jasper,
onyx, agate and carnelian. These trees
did not grow where they lie, or even within a few miles of where they are now found. They are said to have been carried a long distance to the region by flood waters, ages ago, and
after whirling and drifting around in the inland sea which then covered the land, they are said to have become waterlogged, and finally sank to the bottom, where some eddy or whirlpool carried them. There they lay for countless centuries, slowly being covered by silt and sand, while yet other logs came to rest above them. Thousands of years elapsed during this
drifting and sinking into oblivion under the ooze of the Triassic Sea. Then it is believed the Old Ocean added its weight to the pressure, packing the sands to stone, and compressing the clays to shale. With the receding of these great waters the beautiful petri-
fied trees were brought to light.

The Painted Desert is no less a thing
of beauty, the sands shading from
white to grey, tan, taupe, brown, pink,
rose, henna, yellow, lavender.

Sights in Wheeling, W. Va.; Columbus, O.; Cairo, Ill.; Abilene and Texas, Texas, were seen after leaving Bristol. The latter city is really divided, one portion resting in Texas, and the second part in Arkansas.

From El Paso, the tour made a trip
one evening to a nearby Mexican city.
In Tucson, Arizona, they were met by Julian McLaughlin, a former Bristol
resident, at whose home a day was spent.

An evening in San Diego, California,
was pleasantly passed in the company
of Raymond Nevegold and family, who also previously made Bristol their home. The following day the Pennsylvanians were joined by Mr. Nevegold,
and the five visited interesting points,
including Tia Juana, where is located
the longest bar in the world, one block
in length; and Agua Caliente. At the latter spot the group was much impressed with the gorgeous buildings,
swimming pool, and great number of Local women are giving of their time and efforts to further the work in Bucks County and recently Mrs. Lehman was named a representative of the district including Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery counties,

on the Statewide committee, which has been formed within the past few months. Mrs. Lehman is vice-president of the Bucks County Mothers' Assistance Association.

In the whole of Bucks County there are 27 families receiving grants ranging from $20 to $80 monthly, states
the county vice-president. This group involves 89 tots. On the waiting list are 17 additional families in which there are 54 children.

It is hoped that the appropriation of
the state toward this splendid phase
of work will soon be enlarged, then
with the additional fund to be appropriated by the county when this phase
of legislation is passed, will make it possible for the families on the waiting list to be cared for.

Interest in the work, a most commendable project, is being manifest by many prominent folks. At the recent meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, held at Southampton, Miss Evelyn Cavin, executive secretary of the Philadelphia Mothers' Assistance Board, gave a most helpful
and enlightening talk on the assistance being rendered, and the problems
faced by the Board.

In a recent radio broadcast Dr.
George W. Miller, chairman of Child Welfare Committee, American Legion,
Department of Pennsylvania, stated that:

"On May 31, 1930, there were 5,336
mothers receiving Mothers' Assistance
grants in Pennsylvania. On the same date there were 2,497 mothers, with 7,915 children, on the 'waiting list'.
These mothers are entitled to Mothers'
Assistance under the terms of the law
—but there is no more money from which to give them grants. The present appropriation is inadequate.

"Out of every ten families eligible
for Mothers' Assistance, three must be refused aid because of lack of funds.
"And so these mothers and children
wait. They wait for six months, for a year, or in some counties a year and a half, before their turns are reached.
If we call the roll of the 57 counties
which have Mothers' Assistance Funds
we shall find that every single county
has its quota of waiting mothers."

"Every Pennsylvania administration
since 1913 has expressed its approval
of Mothers' Assistance through its appropriations to the Mothers' Assistance Fund. But to this legislature of 1931 there is presented a special opportunity. Let it attain the goal that former legislatures have approached
but never reached! Let this Administration signalize itself, let this General Assembly go down in the State's history as the administration and the legislature that cleared up the Mothers'
Assistance waiting list!"

The workers in Bristol and Bucks County are most desirous of having
the appropriation increased, and ask
that all voters urge the legislators to appropriate $4,115,938 to the Fund for 1931-32, and thus help clear up the waiting list. There are worthy families in Bristol on this list, and their road will be made easier as soon as this dream becomes a reality.

NEW YORKER PAYS $50 FOR A "DATE" HE MADE

Pleads Guilty to Charge of Assault and Battery; Trenton
Miss Involved

GRANT THREE DIVORCES

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 5.—A New Yorker yesterday paid $50 for a date
with a Trenton miss when Judge Calvin S. Boyer fined Frank Kramer after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

According to the information filed
with the transcript, Kramer met Miss Thelma Liscue in Trenton on January
25 and took her to the Lehigh Farms, Falls township, where they were drinking together.

After leaving the place, Kramer, it is alleged, struck Miss Liscue across
the face, blackening an eye and knocking her unconscious. The next thing
she knew, she told police, was when she woke up in a Trenton hotel where
the affair was reported to a Trenton
police captain, who took steps to have Kramer arrested. The information charged that Kramer hit the girl as she was getting in his automobile.

Completing Plans For Interscholastic Meet

The 11th annual Bucks County In-terscholastic Meet will be held on March 28 in the Perkase-Sellersville
High School, according to preliminary plans. Twenty schools have entered.

Charles H. Boehm, principal of the high school at Morrisville, is president of the association; Lewis Snyder, of Sellersville, vice-president; Carol W.
Shuster, supervising principal of Newtown High School, secretary; A. P.
Hunberger, Quakertown, treasurer.

The executive committee comprises:
County Superintendent J. H. Hoffman,
Doylestown, chairman; M. R. Reiter,
supervising principal of the Morris-
ville public schools; Lewis Snyder,
Howard James, Warren Smith, Joseph
Neldig, Theodore Gottlieb.

Following the usual custom, the competing schools will be classified in five divisions. Class A will be composed of: Bristol, Quakertown, Perkase-Sellersville, and Morrisville.

Class B includes: New Hope, Newtown, Yardley, Hilltown, Langhorne,
Class C: Langhorne, Bristol Township,
Perkase-Sellersville, Quakertown, Morrisville. Class D: Warminster,

the meet.

BENSALEM CONTINUES REHEARSALS FOR PLAYS

High School at Cornwells
Heights Wins in Debating
Contest

STUDENTS VERY ACTIVE

BENSALEM TWP. HIGH SCHOOL,
Cornwells Heights, Mar. 5.—A threeact comedy of home life entitled "The Family Upstairs," will be produced by the faculty of the Bensalem township
high school on Saturday evening.

March 7th, in the high school "gym."
The doors will be opened at 7.30. No seats are reserved, and the play will begin at 8.00 o'clock. This presentation is under the direction of Samuel
K. Faust, supervising principal.

Don't forget the school play, "Polly
With A Past," to be given on the evenings of March 27 and 28 in the high school "gym."

On Friday afternoon a debate took place between Newtown high school
and Bensalem. Newtown took the negative, and Bensalem the affirmative
on the question: "Resolved: That Modern Advertising is a Detriment to the Best Interest of Society."

The Newtown team consisted of:
first speaker, James Kaiser (captain);
second speaker, Jane Collins, and third, Hazel Buckman.

The Bensalem team consisted of:
first speaker, Alma MacKenzie; second
speaker, Axel Klenborg (captain);
third, Harry Seltzer.

The judges were given ten minutes
after the rebuttal to form a decision.
The judges were: Prof. Nichols, of Frankford High; Prof. McAllister, of Rider College, and Hugh B. Eastburn, of Bristol.

During the time that the judges were deciding, Dorothea Wenner played a beautiful piano solo, entitled, "The Glow Worm." Following this the student body sang several numbers,
among which were: "Drink To Me
Only With Thine Eyes," "Neapolitan
Serenade" and "Jubilant."

After this entertainment, the decision was rendered and it proved to be 2 to 1 favor the affirmative, Bensalem.

Rev. J. B. D. Cooke was chairman of the debate.

On Monday evening the alumni basketball teams played the high school.
The alumni won both games. The scores were: Girls, 53-15; boys, 45-13.

Miss June Kohler, of the English department, will chaperon quite a number of the members of the high school to the Shubert Theatre to see
"My Maryland," this evening.

ANDALUSIA

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McClain and son, of Croydon, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tomlinson.

Miss Edith Dunner, of Mayfair, spent Sunday with Miss Rhoda Wilkins.

Mrs. Jessie Wilson is around again
after being confined to her home.

STATE NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

BLOOMSBURG, Mar. 5.—(INS)—
Unemployment, in "the richest country
on earth," was flayed as a "disgrace"
by Dr. Paul S. Leinbach, of Philadelphia, in an address to a Y. M. C. A.
mass meeting here.

Dr. Leinbach listed as "five en-
treached curses of mankind," slavery,
war, impurity, social and industrial injustice and rum.

"Against them the soldiers of the common good have been contending
throughout the centuries," he declared.

Unthinking submission to the social evils of everyday life was blamed by
the speaker for their perpetuation, and
he told his auditors that "prophet who takes up the cudgels against this situation is branded a Socialist or Communist, and efforts are made to discredit him in every way."

Preparations Being Made For Annual County Meet
in April

COMPETITION IS KEEN

Every Troop Striving to Capture the Coveted
Honors

District Scout meets are being held throughout Bucks County the latter part of this week and next week to decide the county champion in various scoutcraft events.

The county championship meet will be held at Quakertown on Saturday, April 11th, with the entire Boy Scout organization meeting for its fourth annual rally.

District meets will be conducted in
the following places:
District 1—Lower Bucks: Thursday,
March 5th, Bristol High School.

District 2—Delaware Valley: Odd
Fellows Hall, Yardley, Tuesday, March 10th.

District 3, Middle Bucks District,
Armory, Doylestown, Wednesday,
March 11th.

District 4, North Penn Valley, Perkase High School Auditorium, Thursday, March 12.

District 5, West Bucks, Richboro
Fire House, Friday, March 6.

District 6, Delaware River, Presbyterian Church, Milford, Friday, March 12.

It will be remembered that the county meet as well as the district
meets, were very closely contested.
Chalfont No. 1 is hoping to win first place again this year but their record
is going to be a difficult one to retain,

THE MARRIAGE OUTLOOK

Some critics have said that modern young people insist on beginning where their parents left off in household furnishings and domestic comforts. Young men are supposed to believe that all young women require so many luxuries that it's impossible to marry on a moderate salary, and young women are said to be only too conscious of the fact that they can earn as much or more than their young men acquaintances. The outlook is therefore very bad.

Yet with the bride figuring prominently in every part of the paper from society column to advertising pages, and with the senior classes in colleges showing a fairly sizable proportion of engaged girls, it doesn't really look as if the high cost of buying and furnishing a home were creating an alarming shortage of marriages at present.

Look about and listen a little. Here is an Easter bridegroom busily refinishing a fine old table and some chairs handed down from his grandparents. Here is the bride making simple curtains and cheerfully admitting that they are going to furnish only part of the house to start with. There are others like them, and education, in high school or college, has given them some of the tools with which they work and some of the ideals on which their courage is based.

PROMISE WITH CARE

Tradition says that the sovereign of an ancient kingdom offered to grant one wish to the inventor of a new game which would amuse his army, wearied in a long siege.

A venerable man thereupon came forward with the game of chess, and it fitted the need.

Told to state his wish, the inventor suggested one grain of wheat for the first square on the chess board, two for the second square, four for the third square and so on, doubling up to and including the sixty-fourth square.

The king, amused at so queer a wish, ordered his chamberlain to give the old man a sackful of wheat and send him away. But the aged inventor insisted upon exact measurement.

A schoolboy who once had the patience to reckon this sum found that the wheat would load a train of cars reaching from the earth to the moon and back, thence half way around the earth.

Be careful what you promise.

With these midget cars on the streets they will have to be more careful about manhole covers.

About the only prices that haven't come down are the bootlegger's prices.

They say Mussolini talks to himself, but doubtless he's just addressing the cabinet.

Science tells us that 40,000 germs are transmitted by a kiss. Give 40,000, take 40,000—it's a 50-50 proposition.

The line of least resistance leads downward and the line of most persistence leads upward.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I have been following your advice for some time and I wish you would kindly help me in my house a good deal. All of a sudden he stopped coming. But still my attitude toward him has not changed. How could I get him back? I see him every now and then but he just says, "Hello." Would it be proper to write him? He is an out of town boy. If he talks again and comes back then when he leaves would it be all right to correspond with him?

EVE.

EVE: Perhaps the young man belongs to that noble company of souls that like to accept hospitality so long as there are no strings attached. By which I mean that perhaps the young man ceased his visits when he thought that his attitude might be taken seriously. It would be best to treat the young man in a casual fashion henceforth, unless, of course, he sees fit to give an explanation of his behavior.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I have read your answers and believe you can help me in my affair. I am 22 years of age and desperately in love with a divorced woman. She seems to care for me, but an incident happened lately that makes me write this letter. I attended a party with her last week given by a friend of mine and attended by all my friends. The girl left me and danced all night with one of my pals, which made me feel quite lonesome and ashamed of myself. What made it worse was that my boy friend kept pursuing her. Last night I attended another party and he cut in again. She seems to enjoy it. Do you think I should keep on going with her or leave her?

B. B.

B. B.: It would be best, I think, if you had a frank talk with the lady. Is there an understanding between you? If there isn't, then she no doubt would feel that she is justified in acting as she is. But in any event her manners certainly leave a lot to be desired.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest stirred the town of Kingletts. Walter Vance, Assistant Chief of Police, is in charge of the investigation, aided by his fiancée, "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter. A note, written by the Baroness, is found near the body. Bim recalls seeing the Baroness slip the butler a piece of paper, which he demers. Suspicion is cast on Mary Frost, whose husband, Ted, had flirted with the Baroness. Mary's shawl is found wrapped around the body. Mary claims she was unable to locate the shawl and left with Ted. It develops she returned later for the shawl. Complications arise when it is learned that Laura Allan had borrowed the shawl. Emily Hardy's maid heard the Baroness quarrel with her maid. Bim wonders about the wounds on the head and arm of the Baroness' maid. The jewels of the Baroness have been stolen.

CHAPTER XIII

AS always, when she saw Miss Laura Allan in these surroundings, Bim was struck by the vast difference between the aloof, aristocratic young woman and the members of the Pine Hill crowd.

Laura Allan was tall and slender and dark with a proud, sullen face and eyes that seemed to weigh the world and find it wanting.

Given more vivacity, she would have been like a thin, burning flame; as it was she seemed to dispense an icy glitter.

Her manner was languid and faintly scornful; she appeared to dislike Em and Em's associates even while she allied herself with them. She would sit for an entire evening with an untouched highball in her hand and with a cryptic little smile on her full lips, watching Ted Frost sink deeply into his cups.

She preserved to Mary Frost the polite and slightly tolerant attitude usually accorded age—an attitude, Bim thought, which would be maddening to a woman less than ten years Laura's senior.

A Magnetic Woman

The Tents she ignored as she ignored Bunny Baird, excepting at such times as when moved her to encourage his unflagging devotion.

But for all her disagreeableness, Miss Laura Allan had charm. She was willful, self-centered, and careless of the happiness of others; but she was magnetic—a strange middle of a woman.

This morning she seemed to be at her best as she greeted Em and Bim and dropped a faintly astonished nod to Reynolds and Walter Vance. It was Em who told her the news.

"Something dreadful has happened, dear. The Baroness was shot last night."

"Oh, no!" Laura sat down quickly, incredulous and shocked. "Not!—she isn't!"

Em wagged her head up and down. "Yes, she's dead. Out in the Summer house."

"The Summer house?" Something like horror twisted over the dark, lovely face and ran on down the slim body. Laura seemed unable to speak for a moment and then her words came tumbling out in a manner quite different from her ordinary reserved way of speaking.

"But who did it? Who'd want to do a thing like that? There couldn't have been anyone here—she'd just come and not one of us knew her really—not even you, Em."

"I'd met her and the baron only once, in Palm Beach last winter. Em agreed. 'Of course, we don't know what's behind it, but we're trying to find that out.'"

"Oh!" Laura looked at Rev.

She stooped and dug it out of the pebble dust in which it was imbedded.

nolds and Walter and seemed to understand their presence now. "I'll not be much help to the police, of course."

"But you won't object to answering questions, Miss Allan?" Walter wanted to know.

"Certainly not, if I can."

The Check-Up

"Thank you. What time did you leave here last night?" he began, repeating the enquiry upon which seemed to hinge so much that might be of importance.

Laura considered briefly, her face falling into its usual aloofness. "It was after 11," she stated. "I remember that the clock was striking midnight when I got in—the clock at home, that is. Mrs. Briggs, our housekeeper, put her head out and asked if I wanted anything. I said that I didn't and went up to my room."

"Who was here when you left, Miss Allan?"

"The Baron was in the library with Mr. Hardy. I didn't see the Baroness though I wanted to say good-night. Em was somewhere around—I think she was seeing the Tents off. And there was Mary Frost."

"Ah—Mrs. Frost! You saw her as you were leaving?"

"Yes. She was going out the back way into the garden."

"Sure about that?"

"Oh, yes. She had on her Spanish shawl. I wondered at the time for she had it pulled up about her head and drawn closely around her shoulders."

"Where was Mrs. Frost when you saw her?"

"As I recall she was just stepping out of the terrace into the garden. I was a little surprised, you see, for I thought she had left earlier."

"And where were you at the time?"

"I'd got my wrap from the dressing room and was on the front terrace waiting for Mr. Baird to bring my car around."

"There's screens at the front door and others at the back. You looked through these and saw Mrs. Frost beyond the corridor and the terrace?"

Laura gave him a calculating glance and seemed to hesitate before she replied. "She was some distance away but I'm sure it was Mary Frost. The way she carries herself—yes, it was Mary Frost."

"Did you see anyone with her? Anyone waiting out there?"

"No. The word was muffled."

"You went directly home from here, Miss Allan?"

"I drove Mr. Baird up the mountain first and dropped him at the drive to his bungalow. Then I went home."

"You retired at once?"

"I did," she said laughingly.

Walter then requested them to step into the reception corridor, and once there he directed Laura to stand on the front terrace where she had been the night before when she saw Mary Frost.

This accomplished, he asked Bim to walk slowly across the back terrace and down the garden path toward the Summer house.

Bim obeyed willingly enough, though with an inward shudder, as she realized that she was treading in the footsteps of the woman who had gone, such a short time before, along that very way to her death.

She strolled on the pebble path until a clump of shrubbery hid her from the view of those who watched and there she paused a moment to draw a long breath. The Summer house was before her, locked and deserted; she was too far away to see the sheet spread over the body which lay upon the floor.

As she was turning back an object at the edge of the path caught her attention and she stooped and dug it out of the pebble dust in which it was imbedded as if it were a blood-stone with an intaglio very beautifully cut upon the surface; it was, plainly, a setting lost from a ring—a man's ring.

Another Clue

Bim studied it thoughtfully and slipped it into the pocket of the sweater jacket she wore. "Another clue, maybe," she told herself with a wry little smile, "one that probably will lead no where."

The others still were at the front of the house when she returned. She looked inquiringly at Walter who shook his head.

"Even in bright daylight you'd have no very clear vision from here of a woman on the back terrace, Miss Allan. Just a blurred impression."

"But I'm sure," Laura insisted. "Besides, who but Mary Frost would wear her Spanish shawl?"

"You might, Miss Allan. As a matter of fact the maid saw you wearing it into the garden earlier in the evening."

Laura turned upon Walter a face like a white flame out of which her eyes blazed with fury.

"The maid," she said distinctly. "Lies. I did not wear the shawl and I did not go out there into the garden."

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

WE have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

- (1) Cheap tobaccos.
- (2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.
- (3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidior and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

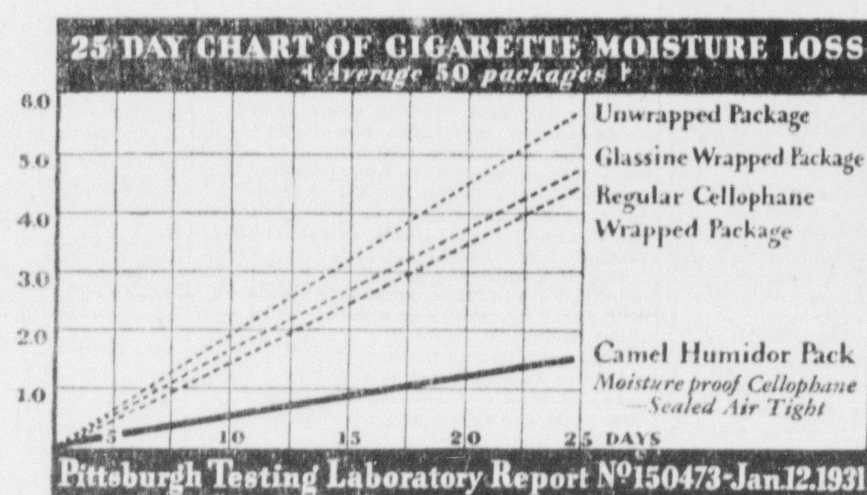

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

- (A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane, gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.
- (B) All cigarettes so packed tend to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.

(C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection.

(D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

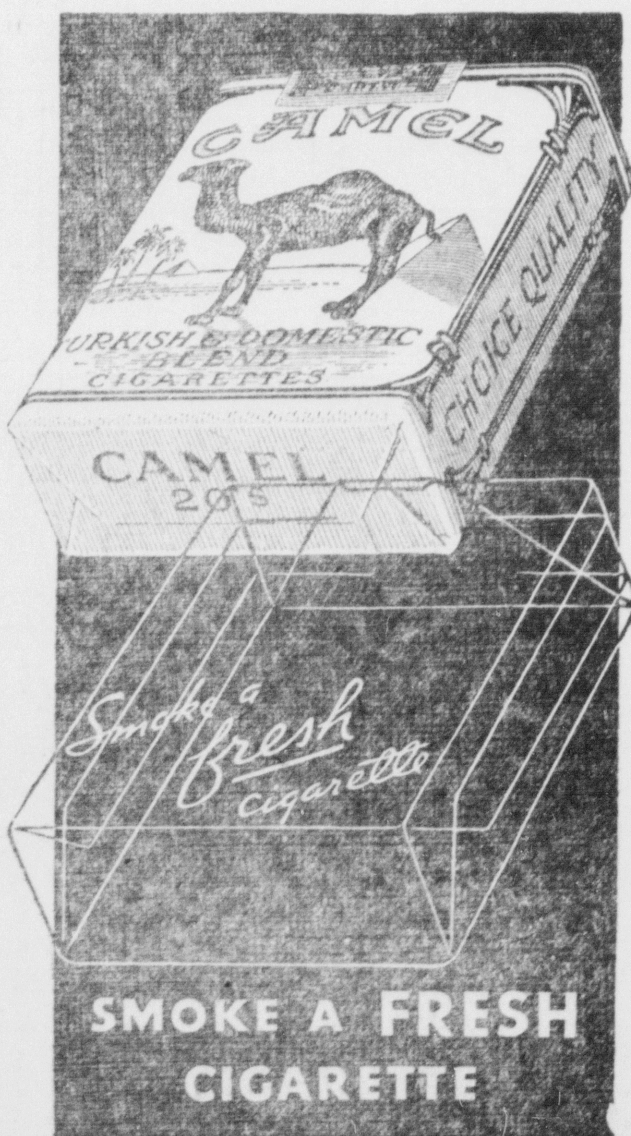

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

MIRROR OF BUCKS COUNTY

A Series of Sketches Which Reflect Personalities of Unusual Interest; or Accomplishments Which Are Out of the Ordinary.

SCOTTSVILLE CHURCH MISSIONARY SPIRIT

To a little band of thirty titheers who apportion their time and money to the glory of God is the wonderful success of the little stone church known as the Scottsville M. E. attributed by men and women Christians of lower Bucks county.

As in the parable of the leaven many parts of the world have been leavened from the small bit that commenced the work of activity in the community of Scottsville, a small village of a few scattered houses in lower Bucks county a few years ago.

From a humble beginning linking just the few families immediately surrounding the little edifice for worship has the work grown and spread, until now its outstretching arms touch Mexico, South America, and are even now reaching toward darkest Africa.

"All working for the glory of God" is the way one of the faithful workers of this church expressed the splendid interest taken by the 16 teachers in the Sunday School, and the leaders and members of the several organizations connected with the church.

The history of Scottsville Methodist Episcopal Church is a most interesting one, and one cannot help but be thrilled with the manner in which the hand of God has been manifest throughout all its efforts.

For years, up until 1911, the little church at the top of the hill had been closed. Dust and cobwebs filled the interior, the outside presented an ugly appearance, and about the structure the weeds grew in abundance. But someone had a vision.

Some folks of the community, realizing there was a work to be accomplished, asked aid in starting a Sunday School, hoping to have the church reopened. The denomination was not stressed particularly, as all that was wished for was that there might be a place where the folks of the countryside might gather and worship the Lord.

Some said it could not be done, that there were not enough people in that vicinity to support such a movement. But the faith of the faithful never waned. On the last Sunday in July of 1911 the first session of the Sunday School was held, and 27 attended. Jesse B. Brandreth acted as superintendent of the school, and each Sunday was that service held for four years. Slowly the number grew, and interest was raised to such a height that a preaching service was desired. So, once a month, a preaching service took place, with various supply pastors in charge. Soon at the request of the attendants, the Scottsville Church was placed on a circuit with the Langhorne M. E. Church, and Rev. James J. Birmingham, then pastor of the latter church, delivered the sermons. Later Rev. George C. Shoe became pastor of the two churches, with two services for preaching soon being held at Scottsville.

Among the tireless workers for the little church was Miss Martha Reed, a missionary to Mexico, and who at that time was at her home in Trevose on furlough. Miss Reed became interested in the congregation and its work, and the people of the Scottsville church became interested in Miss Reed. Now they are helping her, sending material assistance in a financial way for her great work in Mexico. After her return to her field of endeavor, the Sunday School sent to the young missionary a folding organ, which could easily be taken from place to place as she sang and taught among the Mexicans.

Thirteen years ago Dr. A. M. Vivian was assigned to Scottsville, and it was then the congregation petitioned the Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be permitted to become an independent church. The experiment was tried for a period of one year, and a goodly growth was realized. There were then between 45 and 50 scholars listed on the Sunday School roll. The growth continued, until today the membership of the school is 260, and the average attendance 145.

Although what is known as Scottsville is just the little village lying between Neshaminy Falls, Trevose, Langhorne and Feasterville, people are attracted from some of these surrounding communities. The Bible class on Wednesday evening does and has for years attracted people from Philadelphia. For the past nine years Charles Huber, Philadelphia, has led the studies of this group.

The heaven which all these years has been working within and through the band of faithful Christians commenced activity anew in 1925, when a young woman, at that time Miss Rose Bechtold, left the community to serve as a missionary among the Indians of South America. Since then the servant of the red race in that southern continent married Phillip Pent, also a missionary to South America. Two children have been born to the couple, and the Pents have served faithfully and tirelessly in their chosen field, making their way up and down the rivers of the south, preaching the gospel to many groups who had never heard the story before.

The Pents are now home on furlough, and Scottsville Methodists are still backing them in their efforts. The church has provided a home for the family of four, with rent paid for the year of furlough. Members of the congregation have furnished the little home, and food has been donated that will last for months to come. Mr. and Mrs. Pent always have faith in their Scottsville friends.

The entire field of activity of Mr. Pent and wife is conducted on faith.

and the work has ever been successful. Missionary societies and other friends contribute toward the work; and each month a check of $19 is sent by the Scottsville Epworth League. The children and grown-ups alike, weekly contribute coins in the "missionary cross," which is placed at the front of the church. This money was used as a fund for the return of the Pents to Scottsville when their furlough commenced. Less than $100 was in the cross when word was received that the family was to soon start north. But the fund immediately commenced growing in leaps and bounds, and with help from other friends there was within two weeks' time a sufficient sum to pay the expenses of the many thousand mile trip for the four.

Miss Maude Hoagland, another member of this little church, left for Herkimer, N. Y., in 1925, to study for the mission field. Later her studies were continued in Boston, and the young woman served for a time as a deaconess in Philadelphia. A course of medical study has now been completed by Miss Hoagland in New York, and she is ready to leave for Africa to take up her chosen life work. The Scottsville church is already raising funds for the expenses of the new missionary. The heaven is being multiplied!

Many organizations are working

there successfully under the guidance and influence of those having the needs of the world upon their hearts.

There are few nights in the month that the lights of the little church do not cast their beams through the windows, for the very active societies are continually at work. Walter Sebastian is superintendent of the Sunday School; Mrs. Sebastian, president of the Ladies' Aid Society; Miss Grace Brandreth, head of the Queen Esther Circle; the Home Guards, boys and girls, are in charge of Miss Emma J. Jones and Mrs. Frank Russell; the Women's Home Missionary Society is presided over by Mrs. Sebastian; the president of the Epworth League is Miss Grace Brandreth; then there is the Boy Scout Troop, with Phillip Simon as Scoutmaster.

Suppers, bake sales, socials, and the like are not resorted to by the people of the Scottsville Church as a means for raising money for the many projects for which it is needed however. Through the leavening influence of the hand of titheers does the work progress, the prayerful interest extending to others in the church, and thence to the far corners of the earth.

LIFE TONE IS A BODY BUILDER

Writes W. Earl Money of 1622 Pershing St., Camden

Here is what Earl Money has to say about LIFE TONE: "I have been ailing for the past month from a bad case of the flu and grippe. My system was completely run down and I did not have any appetite or pep. Read the advertisement in the newspaper and decided to give LIFE TONE a trial. I bought a bottle and after taking a bottle I have put on weight and my grippe and flu effects have completely left me. I feel like a new person as my appetite has been restored and now am able to sleep well and have regained my pep and vitality. I readily recommend LIFE TONE to one and all who have been recovering from colds and grippe and have induced my mother and father to take LIFE TONE. We can not praise LIFE TONE too highly." Signed W. Earl Money.

LIFE TONE is a system purifier and is recommended as a reconstructive blood tonic and body builder. It does not contain any narcotics or harmful drugs. TAKE LIFE TONE TODAY.

Your Neighbor's Life Is Important to You

—but Not as Food for Gossip!

Whether You Know Something About Her Struggles and Her Courageous Victories or Only Things Seen from the Back Porch Is Self-Revealing, Says Famous Writer

By WINIFRED BLACK.

YOUR neighbor moved away last week, are you glad or sorry?

What do you remember about your neighbor? Be careful, your answer is going to tell a whole lot about you, as well as about your neighbor.

There was once a woman who went to see Abraham Lincoln and when she got home all she could think of to say about him was that he had a large wart on his nose.

Can't you see that woman right now?

Don't you know exactly the kind of woman she was?

She could tell you things about her neighbor, plenty of things and not one of them would amount to a hill of beans.

She'd know what day neighbor came out the washing and how many tons of coal neighbor burned in the coldest months of the year.

She'd know whether neighbor had an ice cream freezer or an electric ice-box, and just exactly how often she used either of these things to make ice cream.

She could give you a pretty accurate account of the number of towels that neighbor had, and ten chances to one she could tell you exactly how many of them were embroidered and how many of them had fringe.

If neighbor spilled coffee on her best Irish linen tablecloth, that woman would see the stain from the side porch before the cloth had been on the line twenty seconds.

She has no doubts whatsoever about the beauty that come to see neighbor's daughter.

One of them is tall and thin, and wears a gray suit, and one is short and plump, and prefers navy blue serge—and if you think she doesn't know the exact hour that daughter's beau brings her home and whether he goes in the house for a few minutes to say goodnight or not—you don't know very much about the Woman Next Door.

But ask her a few things about neighbor's real life, and neighbor's real character and she won't have a word to say.

What does neighbor read? Is she stupid, or is she witty? Is she kind and loving, and generous, or is she mean and spiteful and stingy?

Oh, yes, she may be able to tell you about the stinky part, but she'll never say a word about anything generous.

Does she know whether her neighbor is happy and contented with a song in her heart and a laugh always close to her lips?

Or whether she's just a poor lonely, unhappy creature dragging a broken heart up and down the world with her, and wishing it was time for her to die.

Not a thing does the Woman Next Door know or care about the little struggles and the little disappointments and the little courageous victories over little troubles, that make up the sum and total of neighbor's life.

What do you know about your neighbor? Be careful what you say. You're telling a whole lot about yourself as well as about your neighbor.

BRISTOL HIGH BOYS TO PLAY IN TOURNAMENT

Fifteen teams entered the Morrisville Interstate Basketball tournament which will begin on Saturday, March 7. A foul shooting contest will be a special feature of the all day program. The basketball games are scheduled for 9 a. m. and will continue until 10 p. m.

Trophies will be awarded to the victors in the junior high school division and to the victors in the junior varsity division.

Special awards will be given to the players showing the best sportsmanship, and also to the best appearing team.

In the junior high school group are Bristol, Bensalem, Bridgeport, Doylestown, Fallsington, Edgewood, and Morrisville.

Entered in the junior varsity group are Langhorne, Bristol, Doylestown, Bensalem, Bridgeport, Morrisville, Pennington, and Allentown, N. J.

In order not to overburden the players, the first round of games will be 4-minute quarters. The second round games will be 6-minute quarters and the third, the final round, will be 10-minute quarters.

MOST IMPROVED CLUBS IN NATIONAL

By Les Conklin

(N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Mar. 5.—Brooklyn, Chicago and Pittsburgh appear to be the most improved clubs in the National League for the 1931 campaign.

Four factors explaining the collapse of the Brooklyn team last year—a gap in the infield defense at second base, lack of a hard-hitting regular in left field, poor team batting in the stretch drive, and absence of a competent catcher to help out Al Lopez, the sensational Cuban backstop who was overworked in the latter stages of the race.

"Lumbago" Lombardi, the big catcher obtained from Oakland, should prove to be a capable understudy for Lopez. Lombardi is no merrymonger on the base paths, but wields a wicked bludgeon and performs acceptably behind the bat.

Lefty O'Doul and Presco Thompson, obtained from the Phillies, should take care of the other three weaknesses that handicapped the Robins last year. Thompson had an off season last year but has taken a new lease of life at training camp. He is normally a .300 hitter and a good second baseman. O'Doul is no gazelle in the outfield but his .353 hitting average makes Brooklyn the hardest hitting club in the league, on paper at least.

Weakness at second base lost fifteen games for Brooklyn last season. If Thompson plugs that hole, he won't have to hit .300 to earn his pay.

Rogers Hornsby has strengthened the pitching staff of the Cubs enormously by acquiring three experienced hurlers from other National League clubs. They are Bob Smith, the dependable right-hander who starred for years with the Boston Braves; Jackie May, the portly southpaw obtained from Cincinnati; and Lester Sweetland. The latter showed flashes of brilliance with the Phillies but became discouraged by the constant bombardment at Baker Bowl.

When you consider that the Cubs lost the pennant last season by only two games, it is easy to see that the acquisition of this trio is going to make the Cubs a mighty powerful contender in the 1931 campaign.

Pittsburgh reinforced its infield defense by obtaining Tommy Thevenow from the Phillies and Bill Regan from the Boston Red Sox. Regan probably will play second with George Grantham alternating with Gus Suhr at first. Thevenow will be steadier at shortstop than was the erratic Dick Bartell.

On paper the Pirates do not appear much stronger, but it must be remembered that an epidemic of sickness and injuries threw them out of their stride last year. Lloyd Waner was out for most of the season, and practically every member of the pitching staff was laid up at one time or another, particularly Heinie Meine and Steve Swetonic. The boys were going like a house afire at the end of the season and are sure to do better in 1931.

NEWPORTVILLE

The members of the Newportville Church will hold their annual soured kroust supper in the church basement, Saturday. The members of the church hope that no one will miss this extraordinary set-out for such a small fee.

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Compton, of Rhawnhurst, visited Mr. and Mrs. William Clifton and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis and families on Monday.

Mrs. Helen Birkey is recovering after an operation at the Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett and son "Buddy" spent Saturday visiting relatives and friends in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Mildred Brummer has been ill for the past several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luiz, of Philadelphia, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Keen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Keen spent several days in Philadelphia, shopping, and were guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wolf, and daughter.

The Newportville Boy Scout Troop, No. 1, held a regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening in the fire house.

Herbert Brambley, Sr., acting Scoutmaster, and Arthur Barclay, assistant Scoutmaster, put the boys through their regular routine of work and the lads are showing advancement.

Two Pleasing Affairs Held At Home of John Rodgers

John Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rodgers, of Bath street, celebrated his third birthday anniversary on Tuesday. In the evening, from 7 to 9 o'clock, a number of his little friends were invited to his home in honor of the occasion. All kinds of games were played and prizes were given for the game "pinning the tail on the donkey." Buddy Green and Isabel Rodgers were the winners. The children also enjoyed themselves singing and dancing to the music from the radio.

Refreshments were served and the table was beautifully decorated in green. In keeping with St. Patrick's Day, each child received as a favor, a little green basket and a chocolate bunny. A large birthday cake with three candles was placed in the center of the table.

Those enjoying this party were: Buddy Green, Edward McCole, John Rodgers, Nellie Green, Isabel Rodgers, Betty, Mary, Peggy and Peter Harkins.

John received many pretty birthday gifts.

Following this party, Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers entertained a number of friends at cards, the game of "500" being played. Favors were given to

Mrs. William Ennis, Mrs. Daniel Ferry and Mrs. Patrick Green. At a late hour, a delicious repast was served in the dining room. The table decorations were green and white.

Those present were: Mrs. John Culigan, Mrs. William Ennis, Mrs. Oscar Singer, Mrs. Daniel Ferry, Mrs. Patrick Green, Mrs. Michael McCole, Mrs. M. Lake, Miss Margaret Cox, Roland Vandegrift, James Rodgers, Vincent Dugan, Daniel Dugan, Mr. John Rodgers, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Rodgers, Jr.

If ever fitness of name and feat were combined felicitously in sporting achievement that occurred when Johnny Golden, veteran Connecticut pro, won the $10,000 first prize at Agua Caliente a few weeks ago. Golden is golf's richest single award. That is won the play-off from George Von Elm. Incidentally, they'd agreed in advance to divide first and second money which amounted to $13,500.

Golden's victory was popular especially with fellow-pros who have always liked the quiet and modest Polish-American who is known to them as "Yonko" and whose real name sounds like that of some of those towns made famous in World War communique from the Eastern Front. He is rugged—"built like an office safe"—and is one of the coolest of all links stars.

He is painstaking, making little or no attempt at braggadocio. But "Yonko" has a sound, powerful swing, and is qualified physically and temperamentally for long and severe competition. He's another of the great pros who were once called "Yonko".

Golden was born in New York's poorest Ramapo Hills and first total sticks at Tuxedo Park's swank Wee Wah club.

Others who have had a good winter season thus far are Al Espinosa and his brother, Abe. Both rival Golden in popularity with the many golf devotees who know them personally.

Harry Cooper, another veteran, has had the most consistent good scores in all the Winter tournaments, yet he has not won one of them at this writing.

With the $15,000 La Gorce Open at hand as the climax of the Florida tournament period, the traveling pros are on the last lap of the long journey which started last December. Golden, Von Elm, Menero, the Espinosa and a few others have won most of the money. Horton Smith is "in the coin," too, but not nearly as much so as on the last two tours.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

by Nancy Lee

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am a girl in my early teens and am in love with a boy about two years my senior. We have loved each other for almost three years but we have not gone "steady." We both then, wanted to be independent of each other and be free to go with anyone we wished, and all our friends know we love each other. But about two months ago we decided to go "steady" and we made a promise to each other, which we both have taken faith in and my parents approve of this man and think our promises to one another is all right, but our friends are always discouraging us and telling us we are too young to make promises to each other. Do you think we are? This young man says no one can discourage him into breaking our promises, as he loves me too much and I love him in return.

BROWN EYES: If your parents approve of the affair, after all, that is the thing that really matters. Never let outsiders influence you once you have made up your mind to pursue a certain course of conduct. Try to earn and keep the good opinion of those around you, but do not let your life be swayed by strangers or friends. You are a big young to be so seriously concerned with love, but let time work out your own plan.
